COLORCUBE Hues Screensaver With License Code (Final 2022)

Free COLORCUBE Hues screensaver for Windows is designed to provide an option to see all the colors available to choose from in the open air. There are 216 color families and each of them has 72 different tones and 36 different hues. All the tones of one color family can be grouped together into the same hue. The COLORCUBE Hues screensaver shows the 3D view of color scale. As you can see, there are no colors with same wavelengths, because it's impossible to mix the same wavelengths into the same tone. You can change the hues by changing the tones. This means that you can choose a certain hue, select one of the available families in it, and then select a tonal family from this family. COLORCUBE Hues screensaver runs on Windows XP/Vista/7/8 and 2000/2003. It's very easy to use: just choose a color, then select a family in it, and then select a tone from this family. Colors from all the families can be mixed together by using any of the 72 tones. You can save this combination of colors into a file, so you can use them later. Colors can be saved into several formats, such as .ini file, .json file, .PNG file and others. This screensaver is produced using the Blender 3D graphics modeling software. It was designed using the cycles render engine. The COLORCUBE Hues screensaver features several filters and themes. Also you can use the COLORCUBE Hues Screensaver as the screensaver in Windows XP, Vista, 7, 8, 2000, 2003.
